

June 4, 2009

To Whom It May Concern:

I have had the distinct pleasure of having Michael J. Emery as a speaker during a series of motivational conferences we hosted at our company, and I have to say we were very pleased with his presentation. This was the event that attracted the largest number of employees. Not only did he share some great content during the presentation, but he also keep the audience very engaged and wanting more.

He demonstrated that he was very well prepared and that he has a lot of knowledge about the topic he was presenting. Additionally, the interactive style of the presentation was very well received by the audience. I still keep receiving very positive feedback about the presentation. He navigated through the slides hitting on key points for people to take away and even provided exercises for the audience to apply what they were learning on the spot.

I sincerely recommend Michael as a great motivational speaker. His presentation titled Take Control Your Future: Facing fears, identifying resources, and breaking through the barriers to success had relevant analogies, personal testimonials and inspiring energy; especially when the current economic downturn is bringing lots of changes to everyone's lives. It was very inspiring to hear that there are several tools we can use to perceive challenges as opportunities and to understand how our emotions can drive us to failure or success.

Thank you, Michael, for sharing this valuable information with us!

Sincerely,

Kathleen Rivera